GAMUDA LAND

First-of-its-kind

A million thanks to The Global Association for the Attractions Industry (IAAPA) for featuring Discovery Park on their May 2020 Virtual Edition Newsletter.

LAUNCH Asia-Pacific by Michael Switow

Southeast Asia's First Aerobar Takes off in Malaysia

Located about 45 minutes south of Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, in Gamuda Cove's Discovery Park, the "Cove Aerobar" lifts 16 passengers to a height of 35 meters. They can eat, drink, and chill out along the way. Seats are arranged facing inward, where a bartender or chef can serve riders drinks and food while they enjoy the view.

This 1.2-million-euro attraction is the first Aerobar in Southeast Asia and is the product of France's Aerophile, which initially made its name with tethered balloons. The Aerobar has a capacity of six cycles per hour. Discovery Park's "Cove Aerobar" is the ninth Aerobar in the world; a 10th version is currently in production for Dubai.

Discovery Park also offers drift karting, cycling, a Discovery Wetlands Centre, and a "Goosebumps Ropes Course" produced by Germany's KristallTurm, which stands 16 meters high and 20 meters wide with 57 climbing elements, including a giant swing and abseiling.
